BITSBURG, Germany -- Roy R. Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Arnold, 51 Wilson St., Agawam, has been promoted to sergeant in the U. S. Air Force.

Sergeant Arnold, a security policeman at Bitburg AB, Germany is in a unit of the U.S. Air Forces in Europe. The sergeant is a 1966 graduate of Agawam H.S.

VERONESI SCORES FOR ITHACA

ITHACA -- The basketball future for Ithaca College looks a lot brighter right now, thanks to the work of a sharpshooting young freshman from Agawam.

His name is Paul Veronesi and, at present, the 6-2, 165 pounder is averaging a cool 21.4 points per game. More impressive is his record in the past 7 outings which shows the former H.S. star scoring 193 points for a splendid 28 point average.

At one point Veronesi had four 30-point games in a row against some of the toughest frosh teams in New York State, including Rochester and LeMoyne.

Veronesi got off to a fast start this season but then cooled off for about 3 games. Right after the holiday break, he started to find his eye again and has been the main reason the I.C. Frosh are sporting an 11-4 record to date.

"This is probably the best frosh team we have ever had at I.C. in my 6 years here, and Paul is the standout," commented Frosh Coach Bob Congdon. "He will be a starter next year for the Varsity, and should be good for close to 20 points a game just about every time out. It's not just his shooting but his maturity on the court which impresses me. He never panics and always takes the good shot."

Veronesi was named to the Western Mass. All Star Team as a sr. while playing under Coach Cliff Kibbe at Agawam.

A Business Admin. major he decided on Ithaca over Villanova, Amherst and Colgate. He hopes to go into the computer field after graduation.

For now, though, the sharp young performer is the center of the I.C. basketball future.

(Veronesi is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Veronesi, 20 Central St. Agawam.)

Miss Noreen Higgins of 48 Dartmouth St., Agawam, a student at Andover Institute of Business, has entered the 18th Annual American Beauty Pageant of the Conn. Valley Flower Show.

The winner will receive an all-expense paid trip for 2 to Bermuda.

A Petition to the Town Meeting Members

V. R. Moreno

When fear and uncertainty take hold in a group it can be expected that the "lid will come off" and in desperation this will cause them to become irrational and blinded by emotion and impossible to reason with.

Town meeting members cannot be excused if they allow themselves to be misled by emotional actions. It is their duty as public officials to remain cool, search out every possible answer, listen to all sides of issues, separate the emotion and fiction from the facts and then and only should their decisions be made. It must be remembered that they represent ALL THE PEOPLE not just a very small minority. A loud uninformed minority can usually influence those who are fearful, uncertain and emotional. It is not likely that anyone influenced so can guard the town's welfare.

ALLOWED NO LUXURY

The Town Meeting members are not allowed the luxury of making decisions by casting a vote because of friendship. They are obliged to cast their ballots to protect the constitutional rights of all the residents of Agawam and not be ruled by a disident negative few.

Town meeting members must not be shortsighted. They must give their minds to the necessities of tomorrow, too. They must go to town meetings with well informed open minds, listen to the requirements of the dep't heads and give them the tools necessary to keep the town going forward.

MUST NOT PANIC

With the town going head-on into a catastrophic rise in the tax rate, they must not panic. There are items on the agenda of the next town meeting that must not be treated negatively; for instance, there is the item that will create the funds to have a sewer survey. The Industrial Commission must have funds to make the industrial park (680 acres) presentable to be saleable. The town employee's cost of living wage increases is a must. The necessary items the Dep't of Public Works must have to keep up their good work. The man who is the most important direct money saver to the consumers of Agawam must be given the funds to operate full time -- the Sealer of Weights and Measures, (he has saved the consumers of Agawam thousands of dollars. Given time I hope to do a whole story on him.)

MUST CREATE A TAX BASE

A good hard look must be given to those issues on the agenda that will create a tax base. Our only source of revenue to relieve the tax load is real estate, profitable real estate; Business, Apartments, and Industry. These 3 items are the only hope we have to overcome the terrific imbalance in our income properties.

Consider the feasibility of creating Sewer Commissioners in Agawam. Also we must put an end to permitting miles and miles of sewers and water lines to be constructed only to ruin miles and miles of good roads because of poor planning by expensive planners. The habit of allowing expensive planners putting in sewer and water lines to take care of today's needs and then crossing their fingers about tomorrow's needs must end. A priority must be placed on the establishing of a "stabilization fund" for Agawam.

LOCAL GIRL NAMED HOMEMAKER of TOMORROW

Joan Dellagiustina has been named 1969 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Agawam H.S. here because she achieved the highest score in a homemaking knowledge and attitude test which she took along with other sr. class girls in her school Dec. 3, it has been announced. She will be awarded a special Betty Crocker silver charm.

Also, her paper has been entered with those of other school winners in the state in competition for the title, State Homemaker of Tomorrow. The winner of this honor will be granted a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, Inc. sponsor of the annual program and her school will be awarded a complete set of Encyclopaedia Britannica. The state runners-up will be granted $500 scholarships.

In April the first place winners from the 50 states and Wash. D.C. each accompanied by a school advisor will be guests on an expense-paid tour of Washington D.C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. The trip will culminate with the naming of the Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow. Her scholarship will be raised to $5,000, with 3 runners-up being granted $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships respectively.

National winners are chosen on the basis of their original test scores, plus personal observation and interviews while on tour. All judging is by personnel from Science REsearch Associates, Chicago, nationally known educational testing firm, which also constructs and grades the written test papers.

The Betty Crocker SEarch for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow was started in 1954-55 to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career. It marked its 15th anniversary this year with a record enrollment of 630,564 senior girls in 15,116 of the nation's schools. Total enrollment since the program started exceeds 6 million and more than $1.5 million has been granted in scholarships.

Agawam High Production in Full Swing

Poster Winners

Many unusual entries were submitted to the poster contest sponsored in the Agawam H.S. art classes to publicize the musical "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying". The show is being produced by the music dep't and will be presented March 6, 7 and 8 in the Frederick T. Dacey Auditorium.

Winners of the contest were announced today by Miss Geraldine Schilling, art instructor at the school.

Best overall poster prize went to Carol Goodwin a senior. This is the 2nd year in a row Miss Goodwin has won this particular award, and her 3rd year as a 1st place winner.

Paste Up winners were 1st Susan Parchick, 2nd Linda Farnsworth and 3rd Betty Kozikowski.

In the Poster Paint Category Paula Alvero won 1st prize, 2nd went to Brenda Boldebook and 3rd to Carolyn Craig.

A combination of Poster Paint and Paste Up was also used and in this field Donna Caesan took first place, 2nd place was awarded to Tom Guevin and 3rd to Alan Edwards.

Honorable Mentions were given to the posters of Sherry Sausville, Linda St. Peter, Linda Cyran, Cathy Mahoney, Marcia Reed and Patty Watson.

Judges were Mr. Darcy Davis, show director and Mrs. Dorothy Eggleston of the office staff. Tickets will be on sale after the 24th.

'How to Succeed' - shaping up

On the week-end of March 6, 7 and 8, the Agawam High stage will become the New York office of the World Wide Wicket Company. Frank Loesser's musical spoof of big business "Hos To Succeed In Business Without Trying" will find William Barker as a window washer who rises to the top of the company with the aid of his wits and secretaries Denise Hawkins and Brenda Boldebook. The company president Michael Connolly is pestered by his nephew, James Gibson; chased by his lady friend, Kathy Ryer; protected by his secretary, Christine Raschi; almost fired by the Chm. of the board, Donald Lederer; and generally harassed by company workers - John Scherpa, Dennis Biagetti Wayne LaRiviere, David Neill and George Bickford.

Other supporting roles have been assigned to Allison Fuller, Thomas Deville, Ken Strom, Kirsten Holve, Alan Edwards and Thomas Wyatt.

The musical will again feature a large stage chorus and dance group as well as the pit chorus and orchestra. A large number of students have been working on set construction and painting and technical crews are already operating at show rehearsals. The production is a complicated one with many scene changes and effects that require a large crew to be ready on split-second timing for the 22 changes and nearly 100 specific technical bits in the performance.

Preparations for the musical have included the rigging of special hoists, the painting of posters by nearly all art students and the knitting of special items for props in addition to the many committee projects.

Teacher to small pupil presenting petition for signature: "Sorry, Tommy - I can't sign a test-ban agreement."

"You've got to be a nut to buy life insurance," claims comic Dick Gregory. "Here's a guy betting you you're going to live, and you're betting him you're going to die, and you hope he wins, and they charge you for think that way."

NIH RESEARCH FOR HEALTH

A REPORT FROM THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH
BETHESDA, MARYLAND

Alloys Are Dental Allies

Metal alloys, valuable allies in restoring decayed teeth, work amazingly well, but do sometimes crack and leak so that decay forms around them. The National Institute of Dental Research, a component of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., supports research to improve alloys. One study of amalgam—the traditional filling material which is silver, mercury and tin—shows that amalgam fillings sometimes break under biting and grinding stresses because they are too brittle.

These three metals do not combine into a perfectly homogeneous material like a solution but tend to form groupings within the amalgam. Therefore, the investigators examined the strength of each group separately. They found that one grouping, the tin-mercury, is not as tough as the others and think that reducing the amount of tin might decrease the brittleness of the whole amalgam.

Whenever dental decay occurs around a filling, it has to be removed and replaced, a costly annoyance. Why this happens is not completely understood but an NIDR-supported study shows that physical shifts in the molecular arrangements of the metals probably account for some of the shrinkage. The scientists noted that the lattice structure of the molecules in the silver-mercury combination can quickly change shape from cubic to hexagonal when the temperature is raised to that of hot coffee, for example. Because the hexagonal lattice takes up about 5% less space than the cubic phase, the investigator thinks that in time hot foods could make the filling shrink enough to account for some of the leakage.

A new technique for strengthening alloys with metal fibers has come from a third study. Metallurgists report that when the atoms of two metals do not mix evenly within a particular range of temperature it is possible to make one of the metals form long, slender fibers that help strengthen the alloy. A new technique for making fibers was discovered in studies of gold-nickel alloys.

The maximum fiber growth occurred and a harder, stronger alloy resulted after the metals were melted at a critical temperature, quickly cooled, and then re-heated to 600°C for an hour. This new method, less tedious than previous ones and applicable to a wider variety of alloys, may eventually lead to stronger, lighter alloys—not only for orthodontic wires, denture clasps and castings; but for medical prostheses and braces; and perhaps even for engineering or space uses.

AGAWAM JR WOMEN

Dessert Bridge

Committee Chm. for the annual dessert-bridge and fashion show presented by the Ag. Jr. W's Club met recently at the home of Mrs. George R. Stevens. "Fashions 'Round The Clock" is the theme of the show scheduled for Tues. Feb. 25 at the

Great Decisions

The Club would like to invite members to attend a "Great Decision" series sponsored by the World Affairs Council. The series involves an 8 week program which meets once a week at the home of Mrs. Louis V. Mercandante, Internat'l Affairs Chm.

Discussions are based on a series of articles compiled into book form, T.V. programs aired specifically for the Great Decision series and newspaper articles in The Sunday Republican.

Persons who would care to join a discussion group of this nature are asked to contact Mrs. Mercandante. However membership in the Ag. Jr. W's Club is not a required factor in establishing a discussion group. Anyone who wishes to do so may contact Mrs. James Sgorbatti, town chm. of The World Affairs Council for further info.

Tickets will be available at the door and from all members of Agawam Chapter Unico National.

Mr. Capitanio announced that ziti macaroni, Italian Salad, home made meatballs, bread milk, coffee cookies and ice cream will be the menu of the day. Added attraction this year will be the home baked good sale with pastries prepared by the wives of Unico members.

Herb Morris and his "meatball" committee have started preparations for 3500 home made meatballs while Al Maloni prepares to supply 250 lbs of salad. Al Christopher, Dom Maiolo, John Chriscola, Joe Depalo and their committees are preparing 300 lbs. of macaroni and 100 gallons of sauce. Ticket chm. Paul D'Amato hopes to surpass last year's record turnout of 1400 tickets sold. Mr. D'Amato noted that tickets are available from any member of the Agawam Chapter of Unico and tickets will also be sold at the door.

Well, What Do You Know?

fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor, The New Book of Knowledge

Can you tell temperature by touch?

You can tell whether something is warm or cold simply by feeling it. But this is not always a good way. About 300 years ago an Englishman named John Locke performed an experiment. He showed that our sense of touch is a poor way to tell temperature. Locke took three pans and filled one of them with water that was about as hot as he could stand. He filled another pan with lukewarm water. And he filled a third with very cold water. He placed his left hand in the hot water and his right hand in the cold water. He kept his hands in the pans for a full minute, then took his hands out of the pans and put them both into the pan of lukewarm water. He found that the water felt cold to his left hand. And it felt hot to his right hand. He concluded that our sense of touch is not an accurate way of telling temperature.

Is there such a thing as red snow?

Snow or rain can be red if the air contains red dust particles. Snowflakes or raindrops forming around these dust particles take on a reddish color. Red snows and red rains occur in those parts of Europe—especially Italy—where the air is filled with dust particles from the red sands of the Sahara desert.

Why are ships christened with champagne?

In olden days ships were christened with wine or water. The Romans and Greeks used water as a sign of purification in blessing a new ship. Red wine was later adopted for launchings. At first, wine was drunk as a good-luck toast as the ship slid into the water. Champagne came into use because it was more expensive and was thought more fitting to the occasion. At first the champagne was poured on the ship. Now the champagne bottle is smashed on the prow. The bottle is enclosed in a metal mesh covering to protect against flying glass.

What makes curly hair?

Imagine that you cut across a shaft of straight hair and a shaft of curly hair, as you might cut across two tree trunks. If you were to look at the cut section of straight hair under the microscope, you would see that it is round. The cut section of curly hair is oval or flat. The flatter the hair is, the more easily it bends and the curlier it is.

FRANK LOCKE NAMED DIRECTOR at WMECo

In connection with Western Mass. Electric Company's recent realignment of executive duties, pres. Robert E. Barrett, Jr., has announced the transfer of Frank R. Locke from Northeast Utilities to the Company as Director of Customer Services.

In this capacity, Mr. Locke will have direct responsibility for the operation of the Customer Service Center. He will also work with area and district managers to expedite service to customers and will work with all departments on business methods and procedures.

Before being assigned to Northeast in April of 1967 as manager of business methods and data processing, Locke directed the installation of the computer system at WMECo's system hqtrs. in W. Springfield.

"One of the advantages of affiliation with N.U." Mr. Barrett said, "is that it offers opportunities for more flexible use of personnel among the operating companies. The talents of specially qualified men can be drawn upon as needed without adverse effect upon their length of service or other cumulative benefits."

Locke is a graduate of Holliston (Mass.) H.S. and Boston U. and served with the Navy in the S. Pacific in W.W. II.

Following graduation from BU he worked 5 years for Remington Rand in Boston before joining WMECo as chief ledger clerk in 1956. He became supervisor of data processing the following year and was named supervisor of business methods and procedures in 1963.

Locke is a charter member and past pres. of the Data Processing Management Ass'n and organizer of the Springfield chapter. He is also a dir. of the Admin. Management Soc. and has presented numerous papers before conferences of the Edison Electric Institute.

He is also treasurer of the Agawam Interchurch Baseball League, which sponsors 8 teams of boys aged 12-16 and grants scholarships to deserving students.

Locke is married to the former Yvette Carbonneau of Holliston. They live at 14 Briarcliff Drive in Agawam and have 6 children.

Nature in Concert

Photography bugs, electronic nuts, nature buffs -- all will be delighted with the unique audio-visual show Nature in Concert that award-winning photographer Les Campbell and the Mass. Audubon Society are presenting this spring across the state.

Nature in Concert combines the best photographs taken by Campbell and other members of the talented amateur photography group, the Mass. Camera Naturalists, with carefully chosen musical selections that amplify each picture. Using ½ a ton of equipment including 6 projectors with special focus and dissolve techniques, an audio system and his own personal narration, Campbell combines the spectacular pictures in a breathtakingly beautiful and inspirational evening.

Dazzled audiences in Canada and up and down the East Coast have called the show "beautiful beyond words." "Nature in Concert cannot help but touch with pleasure the eyes ears heart and mind of every one fortunate enough to take it in."

Showings benefitting Audubon sanctuaries will be held in various cities, and in Springfield March 13.

Nature's Ways

by Wayne Hanley
Mass. Audubon Society

If you have tossed sunflower seed on the back porch this season, you probably have entertained the Vesper-voiced Daughters of the Night.

Perhaps you have thought of them in more mundane terms, such as the northwest Indian names that translated as "sugarbird" or "the little bird that bites like hell." Or, possibly by such a plebian name as the evening grosbeak.

The Daughters of the Night have overrun N.E. already this season. They are the large "wild canaries" that wear yellow, black and white in their plumage. That description fits the "sons" better than the daughters. Lady evening grosbeaks wear a silver gray where the males have yellow.

For a bird that most likely will visit a bird feeder soon after daybreak, the evening grosbeak has few "evening" characteristics. Its history illustrates how birds acquire scientific and common names. If you were a bird and your great grandfather was shot in Tennessee and was the first of the species ever seen by a scientist, you might have to live as the Tenn. warbler. If he were shot in a palm tree, you might be a palm warbler. And so forth.

The truth is that the evening grosbeak is among those birds least likely to be seen in the evening. The birds are among the earlier night roosters and have been known to roost as early as 1 P.M.

It was the fortune of the evening grosbeak to meet the first inquisitive American one eve in April, 1823, near Lake Superior. Major Delafield of the U.S. Boundary Survey Commission discovered the birds fluttering about as the party set up camp for the night. The major recognized them as a repvously undescribed bird. While is now seems apparent that the major's party had interrupted a grosbeak flock that had settled for the night, the major concluded that the birds began their day at twilight. Thus the "evening".

Most of us think of scientific names as a lump of letters that merge into an unpronounceable glob. Actually they are Latin and Greek combinations which wither are descriptive or poetic-and hopefully both. The names of the evening grosbeak settled for the poetic which he thought descriptive. He named the birds Hesperiphona vespertina. The "Hesper" comes from the Greek legendary Hesperides, who were daughters of the night which, like the evening grosbeaks so far as American geographers of that era were concerned lived at the western verge of the world.

In 1823, the population center of evening grosbeaks was assumed to be the Lake Athabaska region of north-west Canada. Since then the birds have traveled around a bit.

Back to April, 1879, two great ornithologist, Dr. Thomas Mayo Brewer and Dr. Elliott Coues, became embroiled in an argument over evening grosbeaks in the pages of the Nuttall Ornithological Club Bulletin. Dr. Coues accused Dr. Brewer of saying that the evening grosbeak occurred in Vermont and New Hampshire. Dr. Brewer insisted that he had said it "may occur" there. If Dr. Brewer had waited a few years, he could have taken credit for prophecy. In February, 1890, the first two evening grosbeaks recorded for New England appeared at Revere Beach, Mass.

Evening grosbeaks are unusual in their erratic wanderings. No one knows how many grosbeaks have appeared this winter nor where they are wintering here. Conservation groups are collecting reports from bird feeders. If you have a flock visiting your home, would you please send a postal card listing the number of birds and date seen to: "Grosbeaks", Massachusetts Audubon Society, South Great Road, Lincoln, Mass. 01773.

ALA Urges Joggers to Run 'round Cellars

BOSTON — Joggers should confine their athletic activity to running around their basements and keep off the highways for the rest of the winter the Auto. Legal Ass'n suggested today.

"Motorists have enough to contend with on snow covered streets jammed with cars without worrying about hitting members of the muscle fraternity," Phil Wallwork, ALA safety dir said.

"With sidewalk plowing a thing of the past joggers should be forced off the streets until spring. A toned-up leg muscle is of little use if it's in a cast."

Mass. Cash Balance

Mass finished the 1st month of calendar 1969 with a $80.4 million cash balance, an increase of more than $5 million over Dec. 1968, State Treas. Robert Q. Crane announced today.

The latest monthly report on the financial condition of Mass. showed a cash balance of $80,433,578.83 for Jan. the 7th month of the current fiscal year. Dec. cash balance was $75,154,829.52.

The increased cash balance resulted, when Jan. disbursements amounted to $263,274,310.58 while the state's receipts for the same month were $268,553,059.89.

Mass. bonded indebtedness, is still over the 1 billion mark. At the end of Jan. it was $1,058,017,000. A year ago, it was $996,315,000.
